BOLIVIAN KISS

AGWA

One of the liqueur world's best-kept secrets, Agwa comes to us from Bolivia via Amsterdam. Distilled from Coca leaves and mixed with a hit of Ginseng and Guarana, Agwa is best tried with a wedge of lime and a deep, deep breath. Coca leaves have traditionally been chewed by South American Indians to help them mountain climb in high altitudes. These same herbal properties produce the natural 'buzz' that comes from drinking Agwa. Whether you have it chilled, straight up or in a cocktail, Agwa is the drink being ordered in the hottest bars and clubs throughout the city.

WHERE'S THE PARTY?

MARTINA LUCINDA

The self-titled collection from former dancer Martina Lucinda embodies the grace and movement of dancers in full flight. Emphasising luxury fabrics and super-feminine detailing, Lucinda reworks the party dress with a strong dash of European flair. Incorporating a generous helping of bows, frills and laser detailing, Martina Lucinda serves up a frothy concoction of marshmallow inspired party dresses guaranteed to satisfy your inner sweet tooth.
